Talks Recess To Dec. 4

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho met today for the sixth day in succession, and decided to recess their talks until Dec. 4.

The two met for two hours despite an apparent Communist leak disclosing details of serious differences said to have arisen during the meetings.

The North Vietnamese delegation issued a communique after the meeting and said Tho and his fellow negotiator, Xuan Thuy "will meet Dr. Kissinger again on Dec. 4, 1972."

In New York, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler also said the talks had been interrupted until Dec. 4. Ziegler said Kissinger is returning to the United States tonight to consult with President Nixon on the status of the negotiations. Nixon and his family are in New York for the weekend.

Ziegler said the President has agreed to meet early next week with South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu's special assistant, Nguyen Phu Duc, who is coming to Washington to discuss the negotiations.

Asked if some obstacles had been encountered in the efforts to reach a cease-fire agreement, Ziegler said, " I would caution you against any excessive speculation." He added that both sides "are negotiating seriously."

The presidential spokesman said it had been mutually agreed "not to discuss the substance of the talks or characterize them in any way whatsoever." It was the U.S. position, Ziegler said, not to sign a final agreement "until the agreement is right."

Kissinger met in the Paris suburb of Choisy-le-Roi for approximately two hours Saturday morning with North Vietnamese negotiators Tho and Xuan Thuy. Deputy U.S. National Security adviser Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. was in on the talks in what Ziegler said was a different format — "a smaller group."

At the end they agreed to resume meeting Dec. 4 in Paris.

Ziegler said Kissinger reported to the President by telephone to his hotel suite at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, where Nixon is staying.

Kissinger was to arrive at New York's John F. Kennedy airport about 10 p.m. tonight. He was to report immediately afterwards to the President.

The talks continued for the sixth straight day despite an apparent Communist leak disclosing details of serious differences said to have arisen between the two sides.

The two delegations met in the same house in suburban Choisy-LeRoi, four blocks from the Hanoi delegation headquarters, where they reportedly had a stormy one-hour meeting Friday.

There was no official comment from either delegation on a detailed report in the Washington Post claiming that the United States had backed away from the draft agreement concluded last month between Kissinger and Tho.

U.S. delegation spokesman David Lambertson declined all comment on the report. Other American sources said the report obviously was leaked by the North Vietnamese delegation and was a "self-serving" version of the facts.

There were widespread reports Friday that Kissinger and Tho had run into serious difficulties after talking for a total of more than 20 hours in what Kissinger said would be the final secret session to clarify minor points in the agreement.

Kissinger conferred with French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann for 45 minutes, apparently to assure him that the United States remains hopeful of an early settlement. Schumann later took the unusual step of issuing a Foreign Ministry statement asserting that "the pessimistic rumors on Vietnam were highly exaggerated."

The Washington Post story said Kissinger had informed Tho when they resumed their secret talks Monday that the United States, in deference to objections from South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu, no longer was willing to go along with some major concessions it made in the October draft.

These included the toleration of North Vietnamese troops in certain areas of South Vietnam and the creation of a Council of National Conciliation — composed of the Saigon government, the Viet Cong and neutralists — to organize elections under international control.

Thieu has described the agreement as a sellout and has warned the United States he will not accept any deal made against his will.

Trash from beans drying in a 200,000 bushel grain dryer ignited. Damage to the beans and the dryer has not been determined, according to Jim Hastings, general manager of the company.

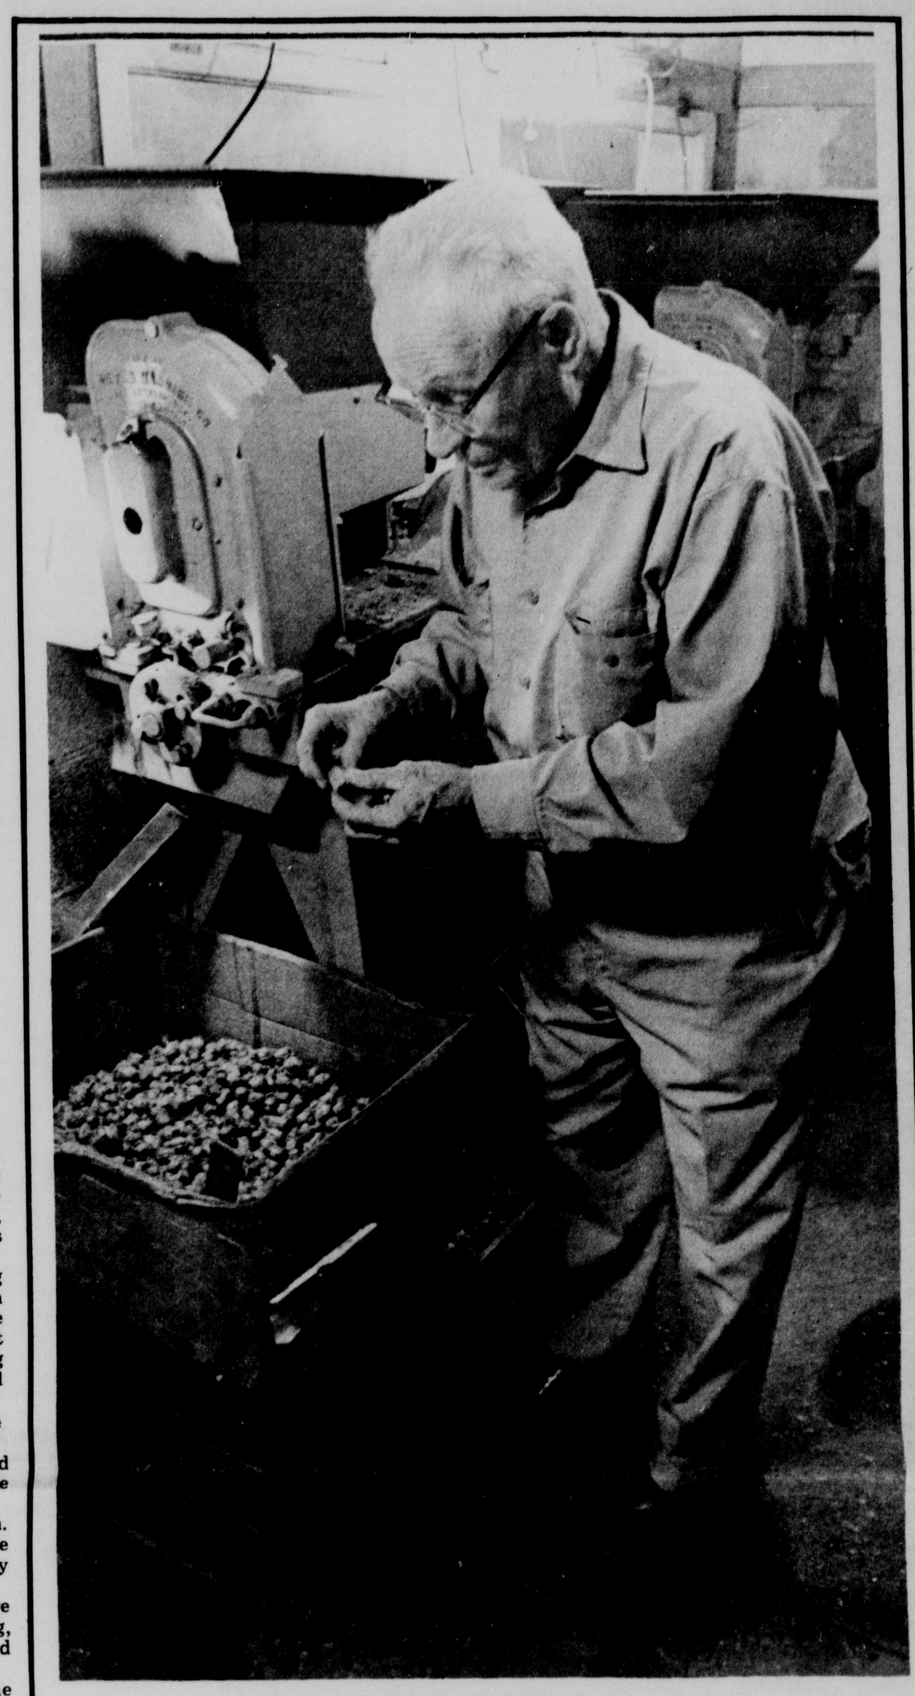

Hastings reported the fire out at 9:30 a.m.

The fire was discovered by a nightwatchmen after the plant closed.

A second call at 4 a.m. sent fireman to the residence of the George Haines family on South Johnson Street.

The fire, believed to have started from faulty wiring, was fought for two and one-half hours.

Sixty per cent of the house was destroyed.

Suspects Turn Themselves In

Two Morley men have turned themselves in to Sikeston police after eluding officers Friday while being sought for attempted sale of marijuana.

John Craig, 20, and Jimmy Wayne Mills, 28, are charged with possession of marijuana. Mills will also be charged with traffic violations, police said.

Craig turned himself in about 8:30 p.m. Friday, and Mills turned himself in Saturday morning.

Both men had eluded police earlier Friday during a high- speed chase through the west side of Sikeston.

Police were called to the Blue Room on West Malone Avenue around 3:30 p.m. by a witness who saw Craig trying to sell the marijuana.

Officers C.W. Jones and Richard Couch were given a description of the car the two men were using and began patrolling the Sunset Addition area.

They found the men a short time later and began a chase at speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour before losing contact with the car.

Couch said he recognized Craig, with whom he had gone to school, when Craig turned around to look at the squad car after throwing two packages out of the car on Davis Road.

The two packages contained 18 plastic bags of marijuana.

Nut Harvest Hurting

By BILL HAMPTON

The annual pecan harvest is in full swing in the Bootheel, but good pecans are hard to find.

Arthur Shy of New Madrid, who cracks and sells pecans commercially, says he is buying most of his pecans from wholesalers in the southern states.

He says poor weather conditions, a limited growing season and defoliants are causing a pecan shortage in most areas of the Mid- South.

Shy noted that testing in Mississippi has shown that defoliants sprayed near pecan orchards have cut yields as much as 50 per cent. He said he had noticed that yields on his 140 acres surrounded by farmland had diminished. "The trees don't produce the nuts they did five or 10 years ago."

Shy's 140 acres of pecan trees are covered with overflow water from the Mississippi River. "Pecans will float down the river before we have a chance to get to them," Shy said.

Labor costs in gathering pecans have increased, closing the profit margin for the dealer, Shy noted.

He said he will buy the remainder of his pecans this year from dealers to whom he has to pay market prices. In the past two weeks, prices on good pecans have increased 10 cents per pound, reflecting the shortage of good pecans.

Shy and his wife Mildred operate the business started in 1914 by Mrs. Shy's father, the late Lee C. Phillips.

Shooting Victim Gives Statement

NEW MADRID — Randy Krebs, 21, of New Madrid, hospitalized in Memphis with critical gunshot wounds, has given a statement to officers investigating the early Sunday shooting which reportedly involved the sale of marijuana.

Krebs' condition is improving and his chances of recovery are good, according to hospital officials.

Details of the statement have not been disclosed about the shooting in which Kreb's companion, Carl David Blankenship, 24, of New Madrid was killed.

The young men were shot in the head while in Blankenship's car which was found just off the edge of the levee- top road in the east part of town.

Robert C. Howell, 24, of Chicago is being held under $40,000 bond pending a preliminary hearing on charges of first degree murder and felonious assault with intent to kill.

Howell was arrested about 10 a.m. Sunday after officers had questioned associates of Blankenship, Krebs and Howell.

An unspecified amount of marijuana was reportedly discovered in Blankenship's car. Blankenship reportedly had just returned to New Madrid early Saturday morning from a trip to Michigan.

Pros. Atty. Hal E. Hunter said today that the background of the case is being investigated thoroughly. Crime laboratory tests are being made on physical evidence found at the scene, as well as ballistics tests on a bullet removed from Blankenship's body.

Associates of the young men are continuing to be investigated and some have taken lie detector tests.

Recovery of the murder weapon has not been made, Hunter said.

German Sharpshooters Kill Hijacker

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Police sharpshooters, firing through a partly opened airplane door, shot and killed a gunman today and freed unharmed a stewardess hostage held nearly 24 hours aboard an Air Canada jetliner at Frankfurt airport, police reported.

Police Director Horst Vogel, who headed the 150 policemen at the airport, told newsmen that "colleagues with special training were under orders to shoot the hijacker in a crystal clear situation that would not endanger the hostage."

The hostage was Margit Sommer, 31, a German-born Canadian, who was rescued when police stormed aboard the DC8 after gunning down the middleaged hijacker.

Miss Sommer had been seized by the revolver-carrying gunman Friday afternoon aboard the plane. He ordered the plane's other six crewmen off and then began issuing widely fluctuating demands to free various persons being held in West German jails.

The gunman was identified by police as Viktor Widera, 58, a German with a long criminal record.

Vogel said Miss Sommer talked Widera into allowing authorities to place a two-way radio aboard the four-engined plane.

"When Widera pushed open the door, Miss Sommer ran a few yards away from him down the corridor giving police sharpshooters a chance to fire one well-aimed shot at the hijacker," Vogel said.

The shot, fired from about 60 yards, hit Widera as he stood at the aircraft's front door.

"Police officers as previously arranged, stormed aboard the plane and found Widera mortally wounded in the passageway," he said.

The stewardess, a resident of Montreal, was unharmed during her ordeal.

Vogel said, "The hijacker had a revolver on him loaded with six cartridges. He also carried a small parcel containing a powdery substance."

Vogel said police were testing the substance to identify it. Widera had claimed he was carrying dynamite and would blow up the plane if his demands were not met.

He set a 3 p.m. — 9 a.m. EST — deadline today for his demands, which ranged from freeing a Czech hijacker awaiting trial for murder to the release of jailed members of the West German Baader-Meinhof anarchist gang.

Officials in Frankfurt, acting with the assistance of a psychologist, implemented a plan of psychological warfare. "We're trying to wear him out," said Frankfurt Police Chief Knut Mueller.

The man, who described himself as a former inmate of a Nazi concentration camp who wants to go down in history, began his bizarre list of demands with a call for the release of the young Czech hijacker awaiting trial in Weiden for the slaying of a Czechoslovak pilot June 8.

As an alternative, the gunman, who spoke with an East European accent, sought the release of 20 Czechs he thought were jailed in West Germany on espionage charges. When told there were not 20 such prisoners, he said he would settle for the liberation of a y 20 convicts serving the highest sentences in West German prisons.

Early this morning, police said he revoked his previous demands and called for the release of jailed members of the Baader-Meinhof gang. The gang is held responsible for a series of thefts and terrorist bombings that left four U.S. servicemen dead and scores injured.

Six alleged gang members went on trial Friday in West Berlin.

It was not clear immediately whether the gunman had planned to seize the plane with passengers on board. If this had been his intent, it was foiled when a woman passenger became frightened by one of the male passengers she said had not been properly checked before boarding the aircraft.

The pilot immediately ordered all 21 passengers to return to the terminal for another security check.

The seven crew members remuined on board. While they waited for the return of the passengers, "a very small guy wearing brown overalls who looked like a cleaning man came aboard," Dieter Gramatzki, an Air Canada traffic service technician, later recalled.

Police Save Woman From Drug Overdose

Carolyn Hanna, 411 Lee St., was rushed to Missouri Delta Community Hospital Friday night after she telephoned the police station and said she had taken an overdose of drugs.

Police found her collapsed on the floor of her house around 8:30 p.m. with a bottle of tranquilizer pills containing a pain killer lying open on the floor beside her.

She was taken to the hospital where she was treated and released. Police were told by hospital officials that Mrs. Hanna had apparently taken different medicines in combination.

Police returned to her home and found a bottle of sleeping pills and an empty bottle of champagne.

GOVERNING
LAND USE

More than a century ago Alexis de Tocqueville wrote the America's basic source of strength was its "boundless continent." Given such abundance, Americans often treated their land as though it were indeed boundless. As the nation grew more populated and more urbanized, the demand for land mushroomed. Today, competition for a slice of America's real estate has reached critical levels, and land use had become a prime concern of environmentalists. The Soil Conservation Society of America will sponsor a National Conference on Land Use Policy on Monday, Nov. 27, in Des Moines, Iowa.

By the year 2000, this country's population will climb to 290 million, nearly 80 million more than today. To accommodate this growth, as many homes, schools, factories, hospitals and roads must be built in the next three decades as in the past three centuries. These facilities will require metropolitan areas. The Delaware Valley Regional Planning Commission estimates that open land in the Philadelphia suburbs is beging developed at the rate of more than eight square miles a year. In the six-county region around Chicago, more than 17 square miles a year are being developed. In Seattle and San Diego, the urbanization rate is 10 square miles a year.

One result of uncontrolled suburban development is an increased danger of floods. As more and more suburban soil is covered with concrete and asphalt, the absorption capacity of the land is destroyed. Natural flood plains, now altered by homes and commercial buildings, no longer are able to contain stream overflows.

The nation can ill afford such destructive and wasteful uses of land. The need for comprehensive land use legislation is not a matter of over-all land scarcity, but rather of judicious use of finite land resources. Although America is still a land of wide- open spaces, one cannot simply uproot half of the urban population and scatter it in the empty fields of Kansas or South Dakota. Land is the basic resource upon which all others -- water, air, timber, minerals, wildlife -- depend for their existence.

MORE CHAMPIONSHIP
CHESS

This has been a big year for fried - chicken magnates. John Brown Jr., who heads the Kentucky Fried Chicken chain, sponsored a fund-raising telethon for the Democratic National Committee on the eve of that party's convention last July. Now an international chess tournament, opening on Saturday, Nov. 18, in San Antonio, Texas, will be sponsored by George Church, a chess enthusiast and president of Church's Fried Chicken Inc. It is billed as the most important chess tournament to be held in this country in 20 years. Sixteen of the world's top players, including Soviet representatives Tigran Petrosian, Anatoloy Karpov and Paul Keres, will vie for $10,000 in prize money. Donald Byrne, Larry Evans, Anthony Saidy and Kenneth Smith will represent the United States. Former world champion Boris Spassky had accepted an invitation to play, but the Russian Ministry of Sports would not let him attend.

The San Antonio event will be the first chess tournament in this country to have a commercial sponsor. In a nation where government sponsorship of sports is limited to the enthusiasm of its President, commercial support is essential to the future of the game. Soviet chessmasters are subsidized by the state, and this is one reason why they have dominated international competition. "No society, no political system had ever invested comparable energies in the perfection of a pastime," writes George Steiner (The New Yorker, Oct. 28, 1972). "From earliest childhood on, a Soviet chess player benefitted from a degree of formal training, of scrutiny by his seniors, of public notice, of material support and potential acclaim that no other country could hope to equal."

Since Bobby Fischer captured the world chess championship from Spassky, the game has reached a new level of popularity in the United States. It is no longer considered a game for old men and eggheads. Department stores report record sales of chess sets and books, and membership in chess clubs is soaring. Edmund B. Edmondson, executive director of the U. S. Chess Federation, estimates that there are 3.5 million regular chess players in the country. As popular interest in the game continues to grow, commercial sponsorship for tournaments will be easier to obtain.

A LARGE RESPONSIBILITY

Automotive emission control involves much more than the installation of pollution suppression devices on millions of autos. Such is the premise of an official of a major oil company. He has described the responsibility in the job of curbing exhaust emissions that must be shared by the owners of more than 100 million motor vehicles in the United States.

Tremendous progress has been made in the design and manufacture of automobiles from the standpoint of controlling the principal types of exhaust gasses that contribute to pollution. This industry authority notes that approximately 80 per cent of the emissions from new cars can be controlled or eliminated -- at least theoretically. He uses the term "theoretically" advisedly because once a car is driven out of a dealer's showroom, it is up to the owner of that car to maintain its operating efficiency.

Figures based on recent tests show what engine maladjustments can mean to automotive emissions. Just a one per cent spark plug misfire can double hydrocarbon emissions and increase carbon monoxide 20 per cent. A dirty air cleaner increases hydrocarbons 17 per cent and doubles carbon monoxide emissions. A carburetor out of adjustment can be another offender. And so it goes. Out of a sample of almost 20,000 autos brought in for a tune-up, 58 per cent had misfiring sparkplugs, and 79 per cent had improper ignition timing.

Obviously, the responsibility for eliminating automotive pollution rests as much whith vehicle owners as with the companies that manufacture the vehicles or make the fuels for them. This is "a very large responsibility." Pressure for mandatory emission checks as the only alternative will unquestionably mount unless individual motorists accept this responsibility voluntarily.

"Employees and the public must understand the need for increased productivity," Paul K. Doyle, director of corporate industrial relations, Union Oil Co. of California.

Leading a workshop session at the Natural Association of Manufacturers 48th Institute on Industrial Relations, Newport Beach, Calif., Mr. Doyle said that the public is gradually becoming more aware that productivity must rise in order to help stabilize prices and prevent unemployment due to foreign competition.

"This growing recognition," he said, "is improving the atmosphere for productivity bargaining with unions."

Traditionally, there is an emphasis on productivity bargaining during times of wage-price controls, but Mr. Doyle predicted that factors in today's domestic economic environment will tend to further the continued use of this type of barbaining.

The California executive urged employers to make sure that employees understand that productivity bargaining doesn't mean forced speedups on the production line. "Rather it means mutual agreement on well-planned proposals for improved plant efficiency for the mutual advantage of the company, its employees and the community."

Dr. Doyle said there is evidence that unions are recognizing the need for, and value of, cooperation on well-designed productivity improvement programs, and he cited a number of industries in which progress is being made in eliminating restrictive work practices.

TOWARD THE
DARK AGES

The history books refer to the Dark Ages -- a period in European history when, for centuries, the light of learning was extinguished and ancient civilizations died. Unbelieveable as it may seem in this supposedly sophisticated age, we see on every hand hostility to science and technology -- an unreasoning fear that there a threat to the environment.

This Twentieth Century version of Dark Age superstition is having a greater impact than is generally realized. Mr. Willard F. Rockwell, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of North American Rockwell Corporation, a leading aerosapce and commercial manufacturing firm, warned that, far from protecting the environment, the turn against technological progress in such areas as space, nuclear power is coming apart at the seams, and we're losing the very men who could most efficiently weld it together." He warns that the aerospace industry alone has lost more than 50,000 engineers and scientists, most of them in the last 12 months. "That kind of a loss", he declares, "... is a direct threat to our national economy, our national defense posture, and the international leadership of our country."

Mr. Rockwell stresses the need for what he calls the creation of a "Federal Ready Reserve" of engineers and scientists to help preserve our nation's nucleus of technical talent. He believes that President Nixon's proposal to reorganize the Cabinet presents a strategic moment to create a department responsible for the safeguarding of the technological skills and leadership of this country. Immediately at stake are jobs for 78 million Americans and income for more than 30 million shareowners in American industry not to mention the cause of environmental preservation.

The heart of Mr. Rockwell's concern is well expressed in the words of The Wall Street Journal, "To fear scientific inquiry is to fear new ideas. And that, along with a susceptibility to hysterical thinking, could be a route to a new Dark Age."

REBIRTH NOT
STAGNATION

A major study of the U. S. railroad industry concludes that the government must take unprecedented action in many areas -- including financial assistance and broad revamping of regulatory policies - to restore the financial strength of the railroads of this nations and put them on an equal competitive footing with other modes of transport. Because of this, many people assume that the railroads are headed for nationalization. Such an eventuality is neither desirable nor necessary.

This fact has been emphasized by no less an authority than the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Mr. George M. Stafford. Mr. Stafford presented an official government view in a few well chosen and high significant words when he said, "of all those in line to protest possible government ownership of the railroads ... the government is first in line to protest possible government ownership of the railroads ... the government is first in line ... The fact that every other nation in the world has had to go the route of railroad nationalization doesn't convince me that that's the path for us. We're going to avoid it. It's going to take some governmenet subsidization, and that doesn't mean just the federal government. State and local governments also are going to have to kick in."

The railroad study has proposed a program of "creative involvement" with the federal government. This is a far different matter than loading the burden of railroad nationalization onto the backs of the taxpayers to the tune of scores of billions of dollars plus the likelihood of perpetual annual deficits of more billions resulting from government operation. Creative involvement means freeing the railroads of hidebound regulation tied to conditions of a century ago when the railroads were a monopoly. It means granting them financial assistance and tax relief to put them on an equal footing with other transport modes.

The study, in short, recommends a positive program looking toward the rebirth of a strong railroad industry able to meet the transport needs of the nation as a taxpaying, private enterprise. It is the antithesis of a retreat into nationalization and stagnation.

WESTERN UNION
HELPER

One chilly night I was awakened by persistent knocking at the landing outside my apartment. Knowing that my neighbor could sleep through anything, I got up to investigate and found a Western Union boy pounding at his door. I offered my heavier hand and the two of us rained blows on the door until both my neighbor and his wife were roused.

When, sleepy, shivering and annoyed by this midnight intrusion, they opened the door the boy handed in his message: "Telegram for Charlie Smith."

I shall never forget my neighbor's glare. His name is Wayne Jones. Mine is Charlie Smith.

U.S. NAVY IN ACTION

The work of the U.S. Navy in carrying the war to the communist enemy in Indochina is worthy of the highest praise. Like other branches of our armed forces, the Navy has performed well during the agonizing years of the protracted conflict. One of the crucial points in the bringing of Hanoi and the Vietcong to a sensible negotiating stance was the pressure our fleet and its air arm applied to the aggressive armed forces of communism. The mining of harbors went unchallenged by Russia which for so long had fed the North Vietnamese war machine. Supplies were effectively cut off from the forces of infiltration.

Day after day the pilots and crews of Navy bombers hammered away at enemy concentrations. The war-making potential of the Vietcong and their allies to the North was checked by the work of the Navy and its sister service arms. The Navy demonstrated that it can carry the attack just as it did in our earlier wars. In fact, it is probably more effective now than ever before.

All this emphasizes that the United States should strive to enlarge and refine its fighting forces at sea. The Russians, traditionally a land power, turned to Navy construction in recent years. The Russians have built and manned powerful fleets of submarines and cruisers, all capable of endangering our world- wide supply lines and avenues of sea commerce. Our fleet is a fine fighting force but war ships nabe not been replaced as often as they should and the commercial fleet has been allowed to run down. Tankers and freighters are vital to supply. Our Navy men have warned that the Russians are posing a threat by building up a commercial fleet that would be vital in event of a major global war.

Congress and the administration alike should get going on a program to secure our margin in Naval power. We, as citizens, should insist on superiority in all phases of defense. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Nixon on Phone:
President Personally
Continues Building Broader
Blue— Collar Coalition
By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON— It was warm around the fireplace in the President's Camp David "cabin." For some of his visitors-- all pledged to secrecy under pain of political "omerta"-- the flames licked searingly hot. For some, as he spoke of the "new" Administration, it was cozy and the future glistened for them personally even brighter than the rain outsidde.

There was some talk of musical chairs in the Cabinet-- and of whipping up a new prosperity.

But there's a smoky curtain around all this. Word is that Shultz wants to return to his university think- tank days, that Rumsfeld won't go to the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, that the District of Columbia's black "Mayor" Waslter Washington will take over Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) and "something has to be done for HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson."

For the moment, on the homefront, most vital to the President is the soft- spoken Shultz. He is the pleasant-humored golfplaying conduit to powerful labor chiefs-- be they the Teamsters' Frank Fitzsimmons or the AFL— CIO's George Meany.

Mr. Nixon wants to hold on to the labor allies he made during the first four years. He wants to keep the blue- collar workers who swung to him by the millions for the first time. He wants to broaden the base of his party.

Dick Nixon knows that the Meany labor hierarch, for the most part, especially in the AFL— CIO Executive Council, is now ready to throw millions of dollars into rebuilding the Democratic party and smashing Nixon's chances for '74 and '76 Republican election victories.

"The continued alliances and liaisons between 'the old man' and the labor leaders will be a big thing in the next four years," says one of the President's younger intimates, using "the old man" sobriquet now for the first time as one would refer to "the chief."

"He is convinced that the inroads made into labor must be continued and expanded. Truth is, he likes those labor guys. So his commitment, regardless of what anybody thinks, is with these labor men. The kind of communication and cooperation we saw during the election year will continue."

But the President isn't under the impression it will all go smoothly. Upcoming '73 and '74 are tough collective bargaining years.

However, the President really doesn't need personal envoys to the labor chiefs. He knows them now on a first-name basis as has no other President. Shortly after the fantastic election results, he telephoned International Longshoremen's Assn. (AFL— CIO) president Thomas Gleason whose birthday was Nov. 8-- the day after the election.

Dick Nixon wished Teddy Gleason, the first AFL— CIO council member to endorse the President, a happy birthday. May sound pollyannish. And political. But the returns were in. Nothing marginal. So it was personal. Sort of the bottom line of the pre- election conversation in the White House Oval Room when Mr. Nixon told Teddy the next Administration would be "a good shop for labor."

There was also a call to the Seafarers' chief Paul Hall whose erudition and intimacy with transportation science is obscured by a carefully cultivated sprinkling of a sailor's earthy vocabulary.

Hall is a latter- day Metternich. The President knows this. And likes it. He, like most labor leaders, has a distaste for the professional intellectuals who have surrounded so many Presidents.

And it is now easy to talk with these labor men. The President has followed the advice he gave Shultz when he swore him in as his first Labor Secretary: "Listen to organized labor and work with it; be direct and say what you have on your mind whether you agree or disagree, and once having made a commitment, stick with it."

And there was a warm letter from the President to Frank Fitzsimmons, leader of the Teamsters, the world's largest union, who could be the next Secretary of Labor by merely saying yes.

These calls and letters and personal talks aren't merely straws in the wind. They are signposts of the President's direction. That's the key word-- direction. He isn't about to hand labor all it wants. He will give it much as he did during the pre- election days.

This means that the Labor Dept. will avoid de facto quota systems in industry or government. The Administration will shift from the concept of proportional representation "on the job" for minorities or women. And there will be no push for compulsory arbitration in or out of transportation.

There will be easing of wage controls for most wage earners, acceptance of some of labor's workable cures for unemployment, heavy shipbuilding and Federal construction, much manpower training, more efforts to ease taxes, and welfare reform. Most of all, the extended hands to the blue- collar workers-- with whom the President now is identifying more than with any other bloc-- will continue.

That's the thinking around the Camp David fireplace.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- President Nixon has such complete confidence in Henry Kissinger's negotiating skills that he stopped reading the complete transcripts of the secret truce talks long ago. He used to go over every word of the transcript until he found that Kissinger was responding with precisely the points the President himself would have made.

The President is particularly pleased with Kissinger's ability to keep the negotiations on the main track and not become distracted by side issues. Nor has he allowed the Communists to panic him into making hasty statements or agreeing to unintended concessions.

At the latest Paris meetings, Kissinger has placed great stress on international supervision at the very start of the cease- fire. He brought with him to Paris secret intelligence reports warning that both government and Communist cadres were preparing their forces for furious fighting to improve their positions between the time a ceasefire is declared and the time international supervisors arrive to enforce it.

As one captured Communist document declares, "the big guns will cease firing, but the small guns will still fire."

The biggest issue that Kissinger sought to resolve, however, was the presence of North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam. He has worked out a secret formula to reduce the number of North Vietnamese troops in the South. Under the proposal, Hanoi would deploy the bulk of its troops into evacuation areas. Eventaully, they would be flown and shipped back to the North. Only 20,000 troops would stay behind to police the Viet Cong- controlled areas.

The trouble with this agreement is that Hanoi has maintained all along that no North Vietnamese troops are stationed in South Vietnam. Hanoi can't sign a public agreement, therefore, that it will remove troops it claims aren't there. And Kissinger has promised that all agreements will be made public. It's unlikely Hanoi will repudiate its past public statements. It's more likely that Kissinger will agree to a secret understanding.

--CASTRO RELENTS--

Cuba's Fidel Castro changed his mind about negotiating a skyjacking agreement with the United States apparently because of the criminal violence involved in the latest air piracy.

The Cuban leader was reported to be upset over the trail of murder and robberies, left by four hijackers who took over an Eastern airlines plane in Houston last month and ordered it to Havana. This was followed by another shooting spree by three men who hijacked a Southern Airways plane in Alabama and forced it to fly to Cuba.

Castro slammed the hijakcers of both planes in jail and suddenly showed an interest in seeking a way to stop the incidents.

The first evidence of his new attitude came in the form of a note, dated October 29, and signed by Foreign Minister Raul Roa." The note, delivered to the United States by the Swiss, reported the arrest of the men who hijacked the Eastern jet and expressed an interest in negotiating a skyjacking agreement.

--HOSPITAL BILLS--

Some of the big hospital chains are trying to charge off part of their normal administrative costs to the taxpayers.

Other profit- making companies must hire their own financial agents lawyers and accountants; most also pay for their own stockholder reports, annual meetings and newsletters.

But some hospital chains want the taxpayers to help foot these bills. Since most investor- owned hospitals care for medicare patients, the hospital officials contend that medicare money should be used to defray administrative expenses.

The hospital chains, working through the Federation of American Hospitals, are bringing pressure on the Health Insurance Benefits Advisory Council. This is a committee of health-care professionals who advise the Health, Education and Welfare Dept."

But a Social Security spokesman told us pointedly: "We will consider HIBAC's recommendations, but we don't have to take their advice."

INDIAN GIVING

Indians have a ready answer for officials eager to prosecute them for demolishing the Bureau of Indian Affairs building during their seven-day- sit- in. They cite a 1969 Interior Department regulation aimed at several Indian tribes in Oregon and Washington.

Posted after an Indian protest, the order reads that the Indian's own "structures...may be removed, demolished or otherwise disposed of, with or without prior notice." The order goes on to say that the cost of "such disposition shall be assessed against the person responsible for the structure."

Applying these standards in Washington, D.C., the Indians reason, they had a right not only to tear down the Bureau of Indian Affairs, which belongs to the Interior Department, but to assess the Nixon Administration for the cost of tearing it down.

One Indian leader has estimated, tongue- in- cheek, that even at minimum semi-skilled wages, the White House owes the Indians $4,000 for smashing the building and its furnishings. This, says the Indian, does not include over- time.

TOWARD THE
DARK AGES

The history books refer to the Dark Ages -- a period in European history when, for centuries, the light of learning was extinguished and ancient civilizations died. Unbelieveable as it may seem in this supposedly sophisticated age, we see on every hand hostility to science and technology -- an unreasoning fear that there a threat to the environment.

This Twentieth Century version of Dark Age superstition is having a greater impact than is generally realized. Mr. Willard F. Rockwell, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of North American Rockwell Corporation, a leading aerosapce and commercial manufacturing firm, warned that, far from protecting the environment, the turn against technological progress in such areas as space, nuclear power is coming apart at the seams, and we're losing the very men who could most efficiently weld it together." He warns that the aerospace industry alone has lost more than 50,000 engineers and scientists, most of them in the last 12 months. "That kind of a loss", he declares, "... is a direct threat to our national economy, our national defense posture, and the international leadership of our country."

Mr. Rockwell stresses the need for what he calls the creation of a "Federal Ready Reserve" of engineers and scientists to help preserve our nation's nucleus of technical talent. He believes that President Nixon's proposal to reorganize the Cabinet presents a strategic moment to create a department responsible for the safeguarding of the technological skills and leadership of this country. Immediately at stake are jobs for 78 million Americans and income for more than 30 million shareowners in American industry not to mention the cause of environmental preservation.

The heart of Mr. Rockwell's concern is well expressed in the words of The Wall Street Journal, "To fear scientific inquiry is to fear new ideas. And that, along with a susceptibility to hysterical thinking, could be a route to a new Dark Age."

REBIRTH NOT
STAGNATION

A major study of the U. S. railroad industry concludes that the government must take unprecedented action in many areas -- including financial assistance and broad revamping of regulatory policies – to restore the financial strength of the railroads of this nations and put them on an equal competitive footing with other modes of transport. Because of this, many people assume that the railroads are headed for nationalization. Such an eventuality is neither desirable nor necessary.

This fact has been emphasized by no less an authority than the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Mr. George M. Stafford. Mr. Stafford presented an official government view in a few well chosen and high significant words when he said, "of all those in line to protest possible government ownership of the railroads ... the government is first in line to protest possible government ownership of the railroads ... the government is first in line ... The fact that every other nation in the world has had to go the route of railroad nationalization doesn't convince me that that's the path for us. We're going to avoid it. It's going to take some governmenet subsidization, and that doesn't mean just the federal government. State and local governments also are going to have to kick in."

The railroad study has proposed a program of "creative involvement" with the federal government. This is a far different matter than loading the burden of railroad nationalization onto the backs of the taxpayers to the tune of scores of billions of dollars plus the likelihood of perpetual annual deficits of more billions resulting from government operation. Creative involvement means freeing the railroads of hidebound regulation tied to conditions of a century ago when the railroads were a monopoly. It means granting them financial assistance and tax relief to put them on an equal footing with other transport modes.

The study, in short, recommends a positive program looking toward the rebirth of a strong railroad industry able to meet the transport needs of the nation as a taxpaying, private enterprise. It is the antithesis of a retreat into nationalization and stagnation.

WESTERN UNION
HELPER

One chilly night I was awakened by persistent knocking at the landing outside my apartment. Knowing that my neighbor could sleep through anything, I got up to investigate and found a Western Union boy pounding at his door. I offered my heavier hand and the two of us rained blows on the door until both my neighbor and his wife were roused.

When, sleepy, shivering and annoyed by this midnight intrusion, they opened the door the boy handed in his message: "Telegram for Charlie Smith."

I shall never forget my neighbor's glare. His name is Wayne Jones. Mine is Charlie Smith.

IT'S THE TRUTH

U.S. NAVY IN ACTION

The work of the U.S. Navy in carrying the war to the communist enemy in Indochina is worthy of the highest praise. Like other branches of our armed forces, the Navy has performed well during the agonizing years of the protracted conflict. One of the crucial points in the bringing of Hanoi and the Vietcong to a sensible negotiating stance was the pressure our fleet and its air arm applied to the aggressive armed forces of communism. The mining of harbors went unchallenged by Russia which for so long had fed the North Vietnamese war machine. Supplies were effectively cut off from the forces of infiltration.

Day after day the pilots and crews of Navy bombers hammered away at enemy concentrations. The war-making potential of the Vietcong and their allies to the North was checked by the work of the Navy and its sister service arms. The Navy demonstrated that it can carry the attack just as it did in our earlier wars. In fact, it is probably more effective now than ever before.

All this emphasizes that the United States should strive to enlarge and refine its fighting forces at sea. The Russians, traditionally a land power, turned to Navy construction in recent years. The Russians have built and manned powerful fleets of submarines and cruisers, all capable of endangering our world- wide supply lines and avenues of sea commerce. Our fleet is a fine fighting force but war ships nabe not been replaced as often as they should and the commercial fleet has been allowed to run down. Tankers and freighters are vital to supply. Our Navy men have warned that the Russians are posing a threat by building up a commercial fleet that would be vital in event of a major global war.

Congress and the administration alike should get going on a program to secure our margin in Naval power. We, as citizens, should insist on superiority in all phases of defense. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Nixon on Phone:
President Personally
Continues Building Broader
Blue— Collar Coalition
By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON— It was warm around the fireplace in the President's Camp David "cabin." For some of his visitors-- all pledged to secrecy under pain of political "omerta"-- the flames licked searingly hot. For some, as he spoke of the "new" Administration, it was cozy and the future glistened for them personally even brighter than the rain outsidde.

There was some talk of musical chairs in the Cabinet-- and of whipping up a new prosperity.

But there's a smoky curtain around all this. Word is that Shultz wants to return to his university think- tank days, that Rumsfeld won't go to the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, that the District of Columbia's black "Mayor" Waslter Washington will take over Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) and "something has to be done for HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson."

For the moment, on the homefront, most vital to the President is the soft- spoken Shultz. He is the pleasant-humored golfplaying conduit to powerful labor chiefs-- be they the Teamsters' Frank Fitzsimmons or the AFL— CIO's George Meany.

Mr. Nixon wants to hold on to the labor allies he made during the first four years. He wants to keep the blue- collar workers who swung to him by the millions for the first time. He wants to broaden the base of his party.

Dick Nixon knows that the Meany labor hierarch, for the most part, especially in the AFL— CIO Executive Council, is now ready to throw millions of dollars into rebuilding the Democratic party and smashing Nixon's chances for '74 and '76 Republican election victories.

"The continued alliances and liaisons between 'the old man' and the labor leaders will be a big thing in the next four years," says one of the President's younger intimates, using "the old man" sobriquet now for the first time as one would refer to "the chief."

"He is convinced that the inroads made into labor must be continued and expanded. Truth is, he likes those labor guys. So his commitment, regardless of what anybody thinks, is with these labor men. The kind of communication and cooperation we saw during the election year will continue."

But the President isn't under the impression it will all go smoothly. Upcoming '73 and '74 are tough collective bargaining years.

However, the President really doesn't need personal envoys to the labor chiefs. He knows them now on a first-name basis as has no other President. Shortly after the fantastic election results, he telephoned International Longshoremen's Assn. (AFL— CIO) president Thomas Gleason whose birthday was Nov. 8-- the day after the election.

Dick Nixon wished Teddy Gleason, the first AFL— CIO council member to endorse the President, a happy birthday. May sound pollyannish. And political. But the returns were in. Nothing marginal. So it was personal. Sort of the bottom line of the pre- election conversation in the White House Oval Room when Mr. Nixon told Teddy the next Administration would be "a good shop for labor."

There was also a call to the Seafarers' chief Paul Hall whose erudition and intimacy with transportation science is obscured by a carefully cultivated sprinkling of a sailor's earthy vocabulary.

Hall is a latter- day Metternich. The President knows this. And likes it. He, like most labor leaders, has a distaste for the professional intellectuals who have surrounded so many Presidents.

And it is now easy to talk with these labor men. The President has followed the advice he gave Shultz when he swore him in as his first Labor Secretary: "Listen to organized labor and work with it; be direct and say what you have on your mind whether you agree or disagree, and once having made a commitment, stick with it."

And there was a warm letter from the President to Frank Fitzsimmons, leader of the Teamsters, the world's largest union, who could be the next Secretary of Labor by merely saying yes.

These calls and letters and personal talks aren't merely straws in the wind. They are signposts of the President's direction. That's the key word-- direction. He isn't about to hand labor all it wants. He will give it much as he did during the pre- election days.

This means that the Labor Dept. will avoid de facto quota systems in industry or government. The Administration will shift from the concept of proportional representation "on the job" for minorities or women. And there will be no push for compulsory arbitration in or out of transportation.

There will be easing of wage controls for most wage earners, acceptance of some of labor's workable cures for unemployment, heavy shipbuilding and Federal construction, much manpower training, more efforts to ease taxes, and welfare reform. Most of all, the extended hands to the blue- collar workers-- with whom the President now is identifying more than with any other bloc-- will continue.

That's the thinking around the Camp David fireplace.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- President Nixon has such complete confidence in Henry Kissinger's negotiating skills that he stopped reading the complete transcripts of the secret truce talks long ago. He used to go over every word of the transcript until he found that Kissinger was responding with precisely the points the President himself would have made.

The President is particularly pleased with Kissinger's ability to keep the negotiations on the main track and not become distracted by side issues. Nor has he allowed the Communists to panic him into making hasty statements or agreeing to unintended concessions.

At the latest Paris meetings, Kissinger has placed great stress on international supervision at the very start of the cease- fire. He brought with him to Paris secret intelligence reports warning that both government and Communist cadres were preparing their forces for furious fighting to improve their positions between the time a ceasefire is declared and the time international supervisors arrive to enforce it.

As one captured Communist document declares, "the big guns will cease firing, but the small guns will still fire."

The biggest issue that Kissinger sought to resolve, however, was the presence of North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam. He has worked out a secret formula to reduce the number of North Vietnamese troops in the South. Under the proposal, Hanoi would deploy the bulk of its troops into evacuation areas. Eventaully, they would be flown and shipped back to the North. Only 20,000 troops would stay behind to police the Viet Cong- controlled areas.

The trouble with this agreement is that Hanoi has maintained all along that no North Vietnamese troops are stationed in South Vietnam. Hanoi can't sign a public agreement, therefore, that it will remove troops it claims aren't there. And Kissinger has promised that all agreements will be made public. It's unlikely Hanoi will repudiate its past public statements. It's more likely that Kissinger will agree to a secret understanding.

--CASTRO RELENTS--

Cuba's Fidel Castro changed his mind about negotiating a skyjacking agreement with the United States apparently because of the criminal violence involved in the latest air piracy.

The Cuban leader was reported to be upset over the trail of murder and robberies, left by four hijackers who took over an Eastern airlines plane in Houston last month and ordered it to Havana. This was followed by another shooting spree by three men who hijacked a Southern Airways plane in Alabama and forced it to fly to Cuba.

Castro slammed the hijakcers of both planes in jail and suddenly showed an interest in seeking a way to stop the incidents.

The first evidence of his new attitude came in the form of a note, dated October 29, and signed by Foreign Minister Raul Roa." The note, delivered to the United States by the Swiss, reported the arrest of the men who hijacked the Eastern jet and expressed an interest in negotiating a skyjacking agreement.

--HOSPITAL BILLS--

Some of the big hospital chains are trying to charge off part of their normal administrative costs to the taxpayers.

Other profit- making companies must hire their own financial agents lawyers and accountants; most also pay for their own stockholder reports, annual meetings and newsletters.

But some hospital chains want the taxpayers to help foot these bills. Since most investor- owned hospitals care for medicare patients, the hospital officials contend that medicare money should be used to defray administrative expenses.

The hospital chains, working through the Federation of American Hospitals, are bringing pressure on the Health Insurance Benefits Advisory Council. This is a committee of health-care professionals who advise the Health, Education and Welfare Dept."

But a Social Security spokesman told us pointedly: "We will consider HIBAC's recommendations, but we don't have to take their advice."

INDIAN GIVING

Indians have a ready answer for officials eager to prosecute them for demolishing the Bureau of Indian Affairs building during their seven-day- sit- in. They cite a 1969 Interior Department regulation aimed at several Indian tribes in Oregon and Washington.

Posted after an Indian protest, the order reads that the Indian's own "structures...may be removed, demolished or otherwise disposed of, with or without prior notice." The order goes on to say that the cost of "such disposition shall be assessed against the person responsible for the structure."

Applying these standards in Washington, D.C., the Indians reason, they had a right not only to tear down the Bureau of Indian Affairs, which belongs to the Interior Department, but to assess the Nixon Administration for the cost of tearing it down.

One Indian leader has estimated, tongue- in- cheek, that even at minimum semi-skilled wages, the White House owes the Indians $4,000 for smashing the building and its furnishings. This, says the Indian, does not include over- time.

THAT GREEN-EYED MONSTER, JEALOUSY, rears its ugly head as Ricky Fleisher (Gary Pearcy), left, tells Richard Merrick (Jerry Abernathy) to keep his oily hands off his girl's back. What's The Law?

The Case Of The Spooky Wife

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Bill was absolutely nuts about Alice and finally popped the question. Immediately after their marriage, however, it dawned upon Bill that maybe it was his bride who was nuts. While she had lots of spirit, she was kind of spooky.

It all started on their return from their honeymoon. First, she began hearing things and then she began seeing things.

The payoff came, however, when she began waking Bill up in the middle of every night insisting that people were running around in the basement. This was somewhat suspicious since their home had no basement.

In view of the circumstances, Bill bundled his wife together and deposited her in a mental institution. Then he started an action to annul their marriage on the grounds that she had not had the mental capacity to enter into it.

"No sooner had we unpacked our honeymoon luggage," he told a judge, "then it became readily apparent. My wife was as wacky as a jaybird. Obviously, she didn't have the brains to get married."

"Then you shouldn't have married her in the first place," responded the bride's father. "Since you did, there is no reason to grant an annulment."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you let Bill off the hook and grant him an annulment?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while a marriage requires the mutual consent of two people of sound mind, there was no proof that Bill's wife was of unsound mind at the time they were married. As a matter of fact, noted the judge, Bill first observed his wife's mental illness after they returned from their honeymoon, but not before.

Ralph Darrell Jones, 26, of St. Louis received bruises and scratches when he reportedly fell asleep at the wheel of his car, ran off the road and struck a bridge. He was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

The accident happened at 2:40 a.m. one- fourth of a mile south of Campbell on Highway 53.

Two cars collided at 8:55 a.m. at the junction of Highway 25 and Route Y on the south edge of Kennett. A car driven by Doris Fay Elmore, 35, of Kennett pulled from a stop sign and crossed Highway 25 into the path of a car driven by Betty Lou McNair, 41, of Senath. Mrs. McNair suffered minor injuries and was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital.

A one- vehicle accident at 5:35 p.m. on Route D in Wayne County five miles north of Wappapello resulted in injuries to the driver of a truck, Ray L. Harvey, 38, of Charlak, who received a fractured right hip and facial cuts, and a passenger, Ralph Moore, 41, of St. Louis, who sustained a shoulder injury. Both were taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff for treatment.

The accident occurred when the Harvey auto ran off the right side of the road, traveled 300 feet along an embankment and overturned down the embankment. The driver was thrown from the vehicle.

Two persons were injured in an accident at 11:15 p.m. nine miles south of Poplar Bluff on Highway 53. A car driven by Billy Robert Little, 30, of Piggott, Ark., crossed the center line and collided with a pickup truck driven by Danny Gerald Stepp, 28, of Poplar Bluff.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Spooky Wife

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Bill was absolutely nuts about Alice and finally popped the question. Immediately after their marriage, however, it dawned upon Bill that maybe it was his bride who was nuts. While she had lots of spirit, she was kind of spooky.

It all started on their return from their honeymoon. First, she began hearing things and then she began seeing things.

The payoff came, however, when she began waking Bill up in the middle of every night insisting that people were running around in the basement. This was somewhat suspicious since their home had no basement.

In view of the circumstances, Bill bundled his wife together and deposited her in a mental institution. Then he started an action to annul their marriage on the grounds that she had not had the mental capacity to enter into it.

"No sooner had we unpacked our honeymoon luggage," he told a judge, "then it became readily apparent. My wife was as wacky as a jaybird. Obviously, she didn't have the brains to get married."

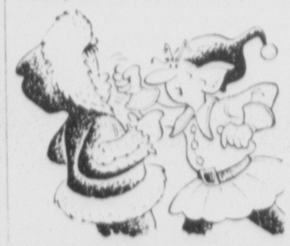

"Then you shouldn't have married her in the first place," responded the bride's father. "Since you did, there is no reason to grant an annulment."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you let Bill off the hook and grant him an annulment?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while a marriage requires the mutual consent of two people of sound mind, there was no proof that Bill's wife was of unsound mind at the time they were married. As a matter of fact, noted the judge, Bill first observed his wife's mental illness after they returned from their honeymoon, but not before.

Mrs. Bruce Hockmeyer

Hockmeyer-Cravens

CREVE COEUR--Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Annette Cravens and Bruce Hockmeyer on Oct. 21 at Temple Emanuel in Creve Coeur. The Rabbi Eliha Rosenblum officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cravens of Sikeston, and Hockmeyer is the son of Mrs. Kay Zimmerman of Creve Coeur and Richard J. Hockmeyer of Tallahassee, Fla.

Miss Caren Ruble of Creve Coeur served as maid of honor, and Robert Pickard of Roanoke, Va., was best man. Julie Kinsey of Lubbock, Tex., cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father.

For her wedding she chose an ivory gown of sata—peau, fashioned with a high, wedding- ring neckline. The empire bodice was overlaid with imported venetian lace threaded with ivory velvet ribbon and detailed with tiny buttons. Her long, full bishop sleeves ended in deep elongated cuffs bordered in the same lace. There were large lace- appliqued motifs scattered throughout the full length A— line skirt. A matching mantilla banded and bordered with venetian lace and threaded with velvet ribbon adorned her long veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses and baby's breath.

The maid of honor wore a full- length moss- green velvet gown, styled with empire waist and trimmed in ivory lace. She carried a basket bouquet of yellow roses, white mums and baby's breath. The flower girl's dress was identical in gold velvet.

Ushers were Michael Craves, brother of the bride, of Cape Girardeau and Mark Krupiaski and Bryan Gold of Creve Coeur and Joel Gordon of Laude.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Four Seasons Country Club in Chesterfield.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Parkway Central High School in Creve Coeur. The bride has attended Southeast Missouri State University of Cape Girardeau and the groom attended the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Hockmeyer is stationed in the Army at Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Ala. The couple is living at 4311 Patton Road, Huntsville.

Bridal showers were given by Mrs. Arthur Greenblatt and Mrs. Helen Miller of Clayton on Sept. 16, and by Mrs. C.D. Springs and Mrs. Charles Conn of Sikeston on Oct. 11.

Out- of- town guests included: Kenneth Hockmeyer of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Linda Kinsey and Julie Kinsey of Lubbock, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schneider of Omaha, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. J.Willard Proffer and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Proffer of Cape Girardeau; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conn, Mr. and Mrs. C.D. Library Board Meets

JACKSON — The Riverside Regional Library board of trustees decided at its November meeting to join a proposed cassette cooperative and adopted a budget for 1973.

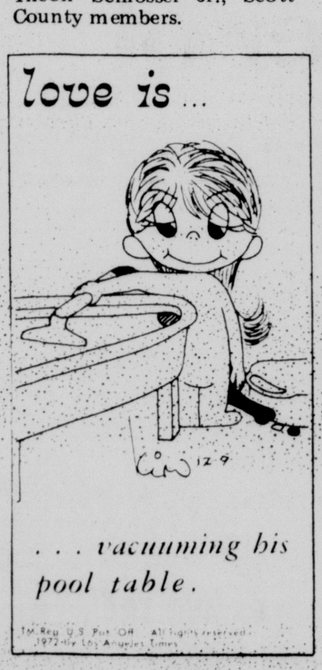

The board met at the library's central center in Jackson Tuesday. Attending were president Dr. Theodore Fischer of Altenburg; Harold Klaus and John Bert of Perryville; Charles Englehard, Pervis Sebaugh, Roland Sander and Mrs. Leonard Ludwig, Cape Girardeau County members; and Scott County board members Mr. L. H. Shipman of Illmo and Mrs. Ray Marshall and Mrs. Albert Dame of Sikeston. Also present were library director Earl H. Oldham and assistant director Mrs. Alfred Limbaugh.

A group of Missouri libraries are banding together to form a cooperative for the purchase and reproduction of cassette tapes to be loaned to library patrons on the same basis as other audio-visual materials.

Members of the cooperative will be assured of obtaining high quality tapes at a minimal cost, making available the best of recorded literature and music. It is hoped the project will be in operation within a few months. The Riverside Regional Library will sign a three-year contract with the cooperative.

The 1973 budget adopted by the board of trustees anticipates an estimated income of $143,407. This includes $126,785 from taxes and $6,800 in state aid, with the rest being interest on idle funds and contributions from participating libraries in Chaffee and Sikeston. Budget expenses include $69,000 to the audio - visual department. Operation of the bookmobile is expected to cost about $3,500 and rents and utilities $18,000.

Board members unable to attend were J. M. Lakenan Jr. and Oscar P. Kasten of Perry County; Mrs. L. W. Kasten of Jackson; and Mrs. Robert Rosenquist and Theon Schlosser Jr., Scott County members.

Ann Landers

Ann Gives Credit To Proper Poet

Dear Ann Landers: May I say something to the young lady who thinks her mother is "sick" because she screams at her? It sounds suspiciously like what goes on at our house.

Our daughter is charming, gracious, sweet and easy-going--- everywhere except at home. She says she gets along beautifully with everyone but us, so it must be our fault. She fights with her brothers, sasses me, and ignores her father. She seems to hate me because I insist she do her share of work around here and treat the members of the family with respect. What comes out of that girl's mouth you wouldn't believe. If I talked that way to my mother I would have had my mouth washed out with soap. When I tell her it isn't necessary to say everything she thinks, she insists it is "fakey" not to express an honest opinion.

I know it's hard to grow up these days and I have done my darnedest to help her make the adjustment from adolescent to young lady, but it seems we can't do anything to suit her. Every day there is a family fight of one kind or another and she is the cause. I've worked off a lot of hostility just writing this letter to you, Ann. Do you have any words of encouragement for mothers of teen- age girls like mine? Believe me, we can use some help.--- San Juan, Puerto Rico

Dear S.J.: Since you feel better for having written, perhaps you'd profit from counseling. Mothers of teen-agers do indeed have a rough go these days and it may be of some comfort for you to know you have a lot of company. Take heart, all of you who are having bad moments with the "Now Generation"— this, too, shall pass.

Dear Readers: Last June someone sent me a poetic essay which she called "Advice to the Unsure." It began, "Go placidly amid the noise and haste and remember what peace there is in silence." The inspirational prose poem concluded with the notation, "Found in St. Paul's Church, Baltimore. Dated 1692."

There hasn't been much peace and silence in my office since I printed that reader's letter. I have learned that the "Baltimore poem" is actually entitled "Desiderata," was written in 1927 by the late Max Ehrmann and appears in a volume entitled "The Poems of Max Ehrmann" published by Crescendo Publishers of 48- 50 Melrose Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02116. Copies of "Desiderata," printed on parchment paper, are available from Crescendo of $1.25. How the work came to be associated with St. Paul's in Baltimore is an interesting story. The Rev. Frederick L. Kates, rector of St. Paul's from 1956 to 1961, had a custom during Lent of putting mimeographed leaflets of an inspirational nature in the pews of the church. One leaflet included a copy of Mr. Ehrmann's poem. Presumably it was picked up by a parishioner, marked "Found in St. Paul's," and passed on from hand to hand. The date "1692" refers to the founding of Old St. Paul's parish, Baltimore's first church.

"Desiderata" has since been reprinted in church magazines, Reader's Digest and even the Mary Worth comic strip-- often with the misleading attribution. With pleasure, I place the credit where it rightly belongs.

Mrs. Bruce Hockmeyer

Hockmeyer-Cravens

CREVE COEUR--Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Annette Cravens and Bruce Hockmeyer on Oct. 21 at Temple Emanuel in Creve Coeur. The Rabbi Eliha Rosenblum officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cravens of Sikeston, and Hockmeyer is the son of Mrs. Kay Zimmerman of Creve Coeur and Richard J. Hockmeyer of Tallahassee, Fla.

Miss Caren Ruble of Creve Coeur served as maid of honor, and Robert Pickard of Roanoke, Va., was best man. Julie Kinsey of Lubbock, Tex., cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father.

For her wedding she chose an ivory gown of sata—peau, fashioned with a high, wedding- ring neckline. The empire bodice was overlaid with imported venetian lace threaded with ivory velvet ribbon and detailed with tiny buttons. Her long, full bishop sleeves ended in deep elongated cuffs bordered in the same lace. There were large lace- appliqued motifs scattered throughout the full length A— line skirt. A matching mantilla banded and bordered with venetian lace and threaded with velvet ribbon adorned her long veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses and baby's breath.

The maid of honor wore a full- length moss- green velvet gown, styled with empire waist and trimmed in ivory lace. She carried a basket bouquet of yellow roses, white mums and baby's breath. The flower girl's dress was identical in gold velvet.

Ushers were Michael Craves, brother of the bride, of Cape Girardeau and Mark Krupiaski and Bryan Gold of Creve Coeur and Joel Gordon of Laude.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Four Seasons Country Club in Chesterfield.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Parkway Central High School in Creve Coeur. The bride has attended Southeast Missouri State University of Cape Girardeau and the groom attended the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Hockmeyer is stationed in the Army at Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Ala. The couple is living at 4311 Patton Road, Huntsville.

Bridal showers were given by Mrs. Arthur Greenblatt and Mrs. Helen Miller of Clayton on Sept. 16, and by Mrs. C.D. Springs and Mrs. Charles Conn of Sikeston on Oct. 11.

Out- of- town guests included: Kenneth Hockmeyer of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Linda Kinsey and Julie Kinsey of Lubbock, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schneider of Omaha, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. J.Willard Proffer and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Proffer of Cape Girardeau; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conn, Mr. and Mrs. C.D. Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Grant of Sikeston.

Library Board Meets

JACKSON — The Riverside Regional Library board of trustees decided at its November meeting to join a proposed cassette cooperative and adopted a budget for 1973.

The board met at the library's central center in Jackson Tuesday. Attending were president Dr. Theodore Fischer of Altenburg; Harold Klaus and John Bert of Perryville; Charles Englehard, Pervis Sebaugh, Roland Sander and Mrs. Leonard Ludwig, Cape Girardeau County members; and Scott County board members Mr. L. H. Shipman of Illmo and Mrs. Ray Marshall and Mrs. Albert Dame of Sikeston. Also present were library director Earl H. Oldham and assistant director Mrs. Alfred Limbaugh.

A group of Missouri libraries are banding together to form a cooperative for the purchase and reproduction of cassette tapes to be loaned to library patrons on the same basis as other audio-visual materials.

Members of the cooperative will be assured of obtaining high quality tapes at a minimal cost, making available the best of recorded literature and music. It is hoped the project will be in operation within a few months. The Riverside Regional Library will sign a three-year contract with the cooperative.

The 1973 budget adopted by the board of trustees anticipates an estimated income of $143,407. This includes $126,785 from taxes and $6,800 in state aid, with the rest being interest on idle funds and contributions from participating libraries in Chaffee and Sikeston. Budget expenses include $69,000 to the audio - visual department. Operation of the bookmobile is expected to cost about $3,500 and rents and utilities $18,000.

Board members unable to attend were J. M. Lakenan Jr. and Oscar P. Kasten of Perry County; Mrs. L. W. Kasten of Jackson; and Mrs. Robert Rosenquist and Theon Schlosser Jr., Scott County members.

Ann Landers

Ann Gives Credit To Proper Poet

Dear Ann Landers: May I say something to the young lady who thinks her mother is "sick" because she screams at her? It sounds suspiciously like what goes on at our house.

Our daughter is charming, gracious, sweet and easy-going--- everywhere except at home. She says she gets along beautifully with everyone but us, so it must be our fault. She fights with her brothers, sasses me, and ignores her father. She seems to hate me because I insist she do her share of work around here and treat the members of the family with respect. Dear Readers: Last June someone sent me a poetic essay which she called "Advice to the Unsure." It began, "Go placidly amid the noise and haste and remember what peace there is in silence." The inspirational prose poem concluded with the notation, "Found in St. Paul's Church, Baltimore. Dated 1692."

There hasn't been much peace and silence in my office since I printed that reader's letter. I have learned that the "Baltimore poem" is actually entitled "Desiderata," was written in 1927 by the late Max Ehrmann and appears in a volume entitled "The Poems of Max Ehrmann" published by Crescendo Publishers of 48- 50 Melrose Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02116. The date "1692" refers to the founding of Old St. Paul's parish, Baltimore's first church.

"Desiderata" has since been reprinted in church magazines, Reader's Digest and even the Mary Worth comic strip-- often with the misleading attribution. With pleasure, I place the credit where it rightly belongs.

Soil Survey Complete

NEW MADRID — Charles Beis, chairman of the New Madrid Soil and Water Conservation District asked some pointed questions as he took part in mapping the last acre of soils in the county.

To the many land owners in the county, he asked, "How many kinds of soils do you have on your farm? Are you using and treating each acre so that you, your family and your grandchildren can continue to enjoy the benefits of this natural resource?" A soil survey can help you find the answers to these questions.

"What is so significant about this," continued chairman Beis, "is that now important interpretations concerning future land use and management can be made for every parcel of land in the county."

This historic event marks the completion of the first detailed soil survey of New Madrid County. The mapping was done by soil scientist of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. Although soil surveys have been made on individual farms of the county for nearly 20 years it was only recently that special effort was begun to complete the survey.

The soil survey report is being written for publication. It will have sections dealing with soil management for agricultural uses, soil interpretations for engineering, woodland, recreation and wildlife.

Major hazards and benefits are emphasized for soil uses, ranging from septic tank filter fields to irrigation, or from land leveling to tree production. The report will remain for years to come to the basic reservior of information for all major land use changes.

An industry expands and construction continues, the need for knowledge about soil behavior as foundation and structural material will increase. The increasing pressure for recreation, hunting and forestry products may in time cause these land uses to be economically competitive.

Soil surveys provide the fairest basis for tax evaluation on agricultural lands. They are the valued, if not essential, basis for future urban and regional planning, if not essential, basis for future urban and regional planning. Soil surveys have proven, the world over, to be the only real means for interpreting soils for farms and ranch planning.

Soil is truly one of our most important, versatile and fascinating natural resources. We can plan for its proper use or we can watch it be abused and misused.

The Soil Survey report of New Madrid County, when published, will contain the soil map of the entire county and the written text explaining the soils, their uses and management. It is an inventory published jointly by the Soil Conservation Services and the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station.

Those who served on the soil survey party are Burton Brown, party leader, Phil Gurley, Kees Vandemeer and Fred Horn.

CHARLES A. BEIS, chairman of the New Madrid Soil and Water Conservation District assists Burton Brown, soil scientist, in mapping the last acre of unmapped soil in New Madrid County.

Take Care During Fall Harvest Season

NEW MADRID— Now that cotton and soybean harvest is under way in New Madrid County, farmers are reminded to "play it safe" when operating harvesting equipment.

This reminder comes from Bernard Recker, chairman of the New Madrid County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Fall is a busy time for farmers, Recker said, and while one-third of all farm accidents happen during the summer months, another one- fourth happen in the fall.

Not every farm has the latest equipment, Recker said, and some of the older pieces of equipment lack some of the advantages of recent safety research developments. He said too that many farmers remove protective shields and guards and defeat the efforts of machinery manufacturers to provide safe and efficient equipment.

Recker reminds farmers to keep the following safety points of the National Safety Council in mind as they harvest their crops this fall.

Read and heed the operator's manuals. Keep the manuals handy and in good condition. Follow recommendations on maintenance and operating procedures to get maximum performance, economy and use from your equipment.

Always shut off the power. Many accident involved running machines, especially corn harvesters. Stop the machine before you unclog, adjust or lubricate it even to brush or pull out a corn stalk.

Keep your guards on. Shields and guards are on your equipment for your protection. Never operate without them. Be alert to belts, chains and gears while you are working.

Leave the little ones at home. Youngsters like to ride with daddy, but riding on or playing near powerful farm machinery is not for small children. Keep them out of work areas.

Be prepared. Your equipment might be in fine shape but how about you? If possible, avoid operating equipment when you are ill, taking strong medications, are tired, or when worry, emotional upsets and other problems are severe enough to make it difficult to be a safe operator.

Program Labeled Blow To Farm Income, Cotton

PORTAGEVILLE — The 1973 cotton program announced by Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz amounts to a double- barreled blow to farm income and the future of cotton, according to Hilton L. Bracey of Portageville, vice president for Delta Area Public Affairs of Midcontinent Farmers Association.

The MFA official said that Butz's decision to set the 1973 cotton loan rate at 19.5 cents per pound and to cut base acreage allotments and payments to farmers by 13 per cent disregarded the compelling need for maintaining farm income at levels that would make it possible for farmers to continue to produce adequate supplies of cotton for domestic and export markets.

Bracey said that a loan level equal to production costs was needed to ease downward pressures on prices for 1972 production, and to bring badly needed price protection for next year's crop. He said the 13 percent cut in acreage was totally unwarranted and would reduce government payments and income to farmers without any compensating adjustment being made in the program to strengthen farm prices.

The announced national base acreage allotment for 1973 will be 10 million acres as compared with 11.5 million acres in 1972. Missouri cotton base acreage will drop from 256,925 acres in 1972 to 223,759 acres in 1973. Government payments to farmers will drop in direct proportion to the acreage cut.

The cotton spokesman noted that one of the most serious concerns among farmers at this time is the degree of adjustment to be allowed in the payment base (projected yield) by the United States Department of Agriculture for losses due to excessive rains and flooding during the current harvesting season. He said that MFA's position "has been and continues to be that all farmers are entitled to full 100 per cent adjustments in yields reduced by abnormal conditions."

He said that full adjustments are authorized under existing law, but in past years, the USDA has allowed only 80 per cent and 90 per cent adjustments except in special cases involving California and Texas. Work is already under way toward adjustments for 1972 losses, Bracey said.

SEVEN MEMBERS of Scott County Farm Bureau attended Missouri Farm Bureau's annual meeting in Jefferson City Nov. 11-14. Attending from Scott County were, from left, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Todt of Sikeston, Mrs. George Eftink of Chaffee, Mrs. Roy Birk of Charleston, Mrs. K. M. Take Care During Fall Harvest Season

NEW MADRID— Now that cotton and soybean harvest is under way in New Madrid County, farmers are reminded to "play it safe" when operating harvesting equipment.

This reminder comes from Bernard Recker, chairman of the New Madrid County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Fall is a busy time for farmers, Recker said, and while one-third of all farm accidents happen during the summer months, another one- fourth happen in the fall.

Not every farm has the latest equipment, Recker said, and some of the older pieces of equipment lack some of the advantages of recent safety research developments. He said too that many farmers remove protective shields and guards and defeat the efforts of machinery manufacturers to provide safe and efficient equipment.

Recker reminds farmers to keep the following safety points of the National Safety Council in mind as they harvest their crops this fall.

Read and heed the operator's manuals. Keep the manuals handy and in good condition. Follow recommendations on maintenance and operating procedures to get maximum performance, economy and use from your equipment.

Always shut off the power. Many accident involved running machines, especially corn harvesters. Stop the machine before you unclog, adjust or lubricate it even to brush or pull out a corn stalk.

Keep your guards on. Shields and guards are on your equipment for your protection. Never operate without them. Be alert to belts, chains and gears while you are working.

Leave the little ones at home. Youngsters like to ride with daddy, but riding on or playing near powerful farm machinery is not for small children. Keep them out of work areas.

Be prepared. Your equipment might be in fine shape but how about you? If possible, avoid operating equipment when you are ill, taking strong medications, are tired, or when worry, emotional upsets and other problems are severe enough to make it difficult to be a safe operator.

Soil Survey Complete

NEW MADRID — Charles Beis, chairman of the New Madrid Soil and Water Conservation District asked some pointed questions as he took part in mapping the last acre of soils in the county.

To the many land owners in the county, he asked, "How many kinds of soils do you have on your farm? Are you using and treating each acre so that you, your family and your grandchildren can continue to enjoy the benefits of this natural resource?" A soil survey can help you find the answers to these questions.

"What is so significant about this," continued chairman Beis, "is that now important interpretations concerning future land use and management can be made for every parcel of land in the county."

This historic event marks the completion of the first detailed soil survey of New Madrid County. The mapping was done by soil scientist of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. Although soil surveys have been made on individual farms of the county for nearly 20 years it was only recently that special effort was begun to complete the survey.

The soil survey report is being written for publication. It will have sections dealing with soil management for agricultural uses, soil interpretations for engineering, woodland, recreation and wildlife.

Major hazards and benefits are emphasized for soil uses, ranging from septic tank filter fields to irrigation, or from land leveling to tree production. The report will remain for years to come to the basic reservior of information for all major land use changes.

An industry expands and construction continues, the need for knowledge about soil behavior as foundation and structural material will increase. The increasing pressure for recreation, hunting and forestry products may in time cause these land uses to be economically competitive.

Soil surveys provide the fairest basis for tax evaluation on agricultural lands. They are the valued, if not essential, basis for future urban and regional planning, if not essential, basis for future urban and regional planning. Soil surveys have proven, the world over, to be the only real means for interpreting soils for farms and ranch planning.

Soil is truly one of our most important, versatile and fascinating natural resources. We can plan for its proper use or we can watch it be abused and misused.

The Soil Survey report of New Madrid County, when published, will contain the soil map of the entire county and the written text explaining the soils, their uses and management. It is an inventory published jointly by the Soil Conservation Services and the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station.

Those who served on the soil survey party are Burton Brown, party leader, Phil Gurley, Kees Vandemeer and Fred Horn.

CHARLES A. BEIS, chairman of the New Madrid Soil and Water Conservation District assists Burton Brown, soil scientist, in mapping the last acre of unmapped soil in New Madrid County.

Program Labeled Blow To Farm Income, Cotton

PORTAGEVILLE — The 1973 cotton program announced by Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz amounts to a double- barreled blow to farm income and the future of cotton, according to Hilton L. Bracey of Portageville, vice president for Delta Area Public Affairs of Midcontinent Farmers Association.

The MFA official said that Butz's decision to set the 1973 cotton loan rate at 19.5 cents per pound and to cut base acreage allotments and payments to farmers by 13 per cent disregarded the compelling need for maintaining farm income at levels that would make it possible for farmers to continue to produce adequate supplies of cotton for domestic and export markets.

Bracey said that a loan level equal to production costs was needed to ease downward pressures on prices for 1972 production, and to bring badly needed price protection for next year's crop. He said the 13 percent cut in acreage was totally unwarranted and would reduce government payments and income to farmers without any compensating adjustment being made in the program to strengthen farm prices.

Cards Challenge Miami

MIAMI — Two teams on long streaks — but in different directions — tangle MONDAY NIGHT WHEN THE Football Cardinals meet the undefeated Miami Dolphins in the Orange Bowl.

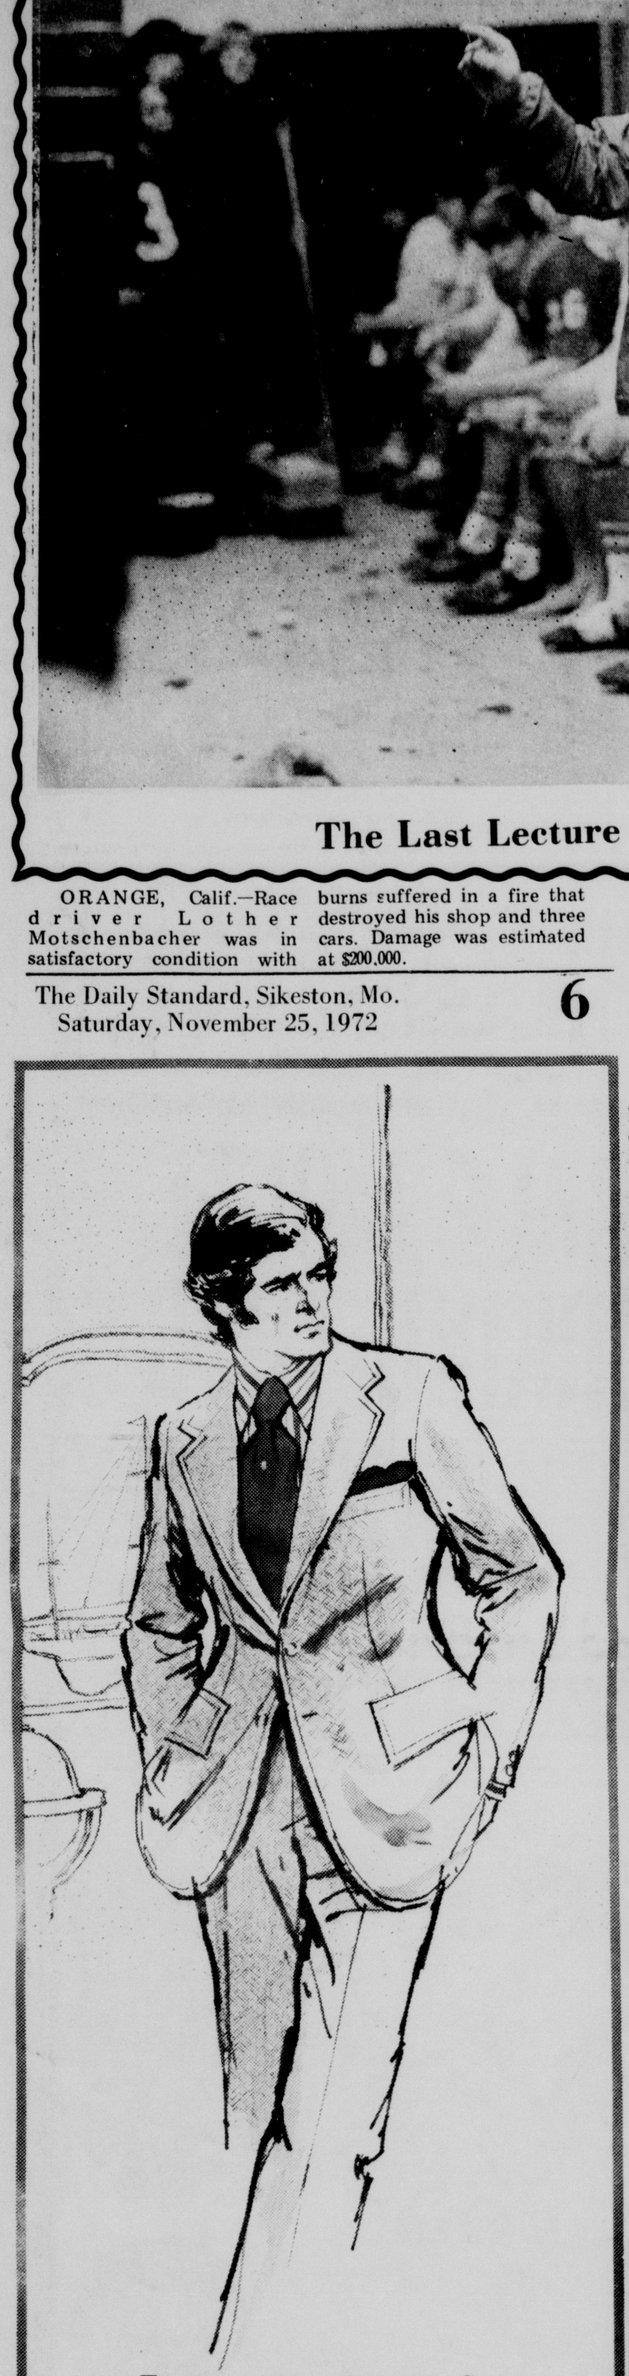

Kickoff for the Big Red's only Monday night appearance of the season will be at 8 p.m. (CST).

The Dolphins, the NFL's only unbeaten team, clinched the division title in the American Football Conference's Eastern Division last week with a come- from- behind 28-24 victory over the New York Jets. It was earliest clinching of a division title by a team since the league's current division format was established three years ago.

The Cardinals, however, have lost five times and tied once in their last six outings, and will take a 2-7-1 record into the Monday game. The Big Red's winless streak continued last week, when the New York Giants rallied from an early deficit to register a 13-7 triumph before a rain and snow-soaked crowd of 48,014 in St. Louis.

In the game, the Big Red rolled for 186 yards on the ground, their best effort of the season, but could score only one touchdown — a 13-yard screen pass from Gary Cuozzo to John Roland. Donny Anderson picked up 1211 of the running yards and Roland the other 65, leaving him with 3,510 career rushing yards. That is only one yard short of the all-time Cardinal ground- gainer Charley Trippi.

If the Miami game is not a rugged enough assignemtn, the Big Red must bounce back only six days later (Dec. 3) to take on Super Bowl champion Dallas in St. Louis. The game is a sell-out. Following the Cowboys are the final two games of he season -- both also at home -- against Los Angeles on Dec. 10 and Philadelphia on Dec. 17.

Season Nears End

For those of you who have failed to bring in that deer prize through the first six days of the eight-day Missouri deer season, your chances are increased greatly today and Sunday because both buck and does are legal prey in many areas.

No doubt a lot of you have gone to the woods through the first six days of the season and have sighted does ... All you need to do now is return to the same spot and hope the animal does the same.

Darrell Teeters of Parma has reported the largest kill of the season. The 20-year-old hunter hauled in a prized 11-point buck on the first day of the season last Saturday.

While the deer season nears its end, the rabbit and pheasat seasons continue ... and, barring any long periods of rain, the seasons look bright.

Southeast Missouri hunters have profited from a successful duck season, which will end Dec. 17 and have had great success in squirrel hunting and deer hunting with bow and arrow. Both seasons end Dec. 31.

VAN BUREN — It all depends on whether you put your faith in hornets or wooly worms ... and whether you know what they're saying when they say it.

Jim Shaddox, Department of Conservation forester from here, reports that the local weather forecasters are split. The members of the spit-'n - whittle set are saying that (1) if the hornets build their nexts low to the ground, it means a touch winter and: (2) if they build them high it means a tough winter because they are being built high to be above deep snow.

The Van Buren weather bureau has not yet decided whether the preponderance of hornet nests are high or low.

Meanwhile, the wooly worms are on the march. If they show more black than brown, it is supposed to mean a tough winter. A careful, scientific evaluation

For The Sportsman

By Fred Copeland

taken by a Department of Conservation employee on a bike ride through Squaw Creek National Refuge on Nov. 4 indicates definitely that 50 per cent of the wooly worms show more black than brown.

Tough winters mean more inconveneince to humans, but they can be disastrous to wildlife. Missouri is riding the crest of at least eight mild winters which have resulted in a long string of excellent quail years.

The Missouri quail season opened Nov. 10 and will run through Jan. 15. Quail are about as good a wildlife indicator as any creature in the outdoors, since they are sensitive to weather as much as any creature and more than most.

When ice and snow cover food and shelter for more than a few days, quail begin to die. The longer the ice and snow remains, the more mortality there is.

This results in a lower breeding population the next spring when a different set of weather conditions comes into play. Wet springs can interrupt nesting. Very dry weather also can affect the breeding success of the bobwhite.

The effects of weather touch all animals -- for example, there is a huge crop of squirrels over much of Missouri. Coupled with this is a poor nut crop -- acorns, hickories and walnuts.

"Most hickory nuts and acorns never even fell," says John Wylie, assistant state forester. "The squirrels got them before they could."

So, the animals which use nuts or "Mast" as a diet staple -- deer, turkeys, squirrels, quail, blue jays and many others -- are going to have slim pickings.

Combine the poor mast crop with a tough winter and Missouri outdoor creatures will have some real hardship.

"We don't like to see a tough winter," says Paul Brooks, field division chief for the Department of Conservation. "But it certainly helps our field people sell wildlife cover and food programs.

"When landowners see starved animals, they are much more willing to plant food and cover plots the next year."

New Look At Mizzou

COLUMBIA, Mo.— Missouri will break in a new basketball arena and a newly designed team when it takes the floor of 12,600— seat Hearnes Multipurpose Building against Ohio University Saturday night at 8:05 p.m.

A capacity crowd is expected for the regular season inaugural of the $11 million structure. The starting time has been moved back to allow traffic from the Kansas— Missouri football game earlier in the day to be cleared out before the basketball traffic moves in.

Coach Norm Stewart plans to start 6- 7 All American candidate John Brown at center with 6- 5 junior Al Eberhard and 6- 5 sophomore Felix Jerman at the forwards. Mike Jeffries has moved from the front line to guard where he will form a senior combination with Orv Salmon. In addition, freshmen LaMont Turner (6- 7) and Kevin King (6— 0) may see plenty of action.

"Orv, Felix, Mike, LaMont and Kevin all are new to what they are doing," Stewart explained. "Mike is changing positions; Orv is in the leadership position and the others are playing varsity ball for the first time. It's going to take time and patience for all of them to adjust."

Injuries and sickness have been the major problems plaguing the Tigers' preseason preparations. Salmon has had the flu and may be replaced by King in the starting lineup. Reserve guard Jerry Stock still is not at full strength since a knee operation, and 6- 11 Gail Wolf just returned to practice after missing two weeks with a sprained ankle.

"Despite the injuries, we think we're going to be fairly close to where we'd like to be for the first game," Stewart said, "but it's been difficult to evaluate our personnel.

"We haven't really had time to work on Ohio University," Stewart said. "we know they're a sound team with good personnel which complements their running game. Coach Jim Snyder's teams always play well."

Last season the Bobcats played well enough to win the Mid- American conference championship. Three starters, 6- 6 Dave Ball, 6- 6 Tom Riccardi and 6- 8 Dennis Rusch, return from that team. However, 6- 6 sophomore George Green, who averaged 21.6 points a game as a freshman, may work into the starting unit.

Ohio is especially deep at guard with four players in a close battle for first team status. Big Bill Brown (6- 5) has been injured but may start with either transfer Allan Talbert or junior Denny Thompson.

Ohio's prized freshman, 6— 4 Walter Luckett, also will get plenty of playing time. Luckett averaged 39.8 points a game last year in high school and was the top scorer in the Bobcats' intrasquad game, but he has been slowed by preseason knee surgery.

Missouri has defeated Ohio the last two years, once in double overtime and by two points last season. The two should provide an exciting opening to the 1972- 73 season.

Louisiana Tech comes to Columbia Tuesday for a game beginning at the usual 7:35 p.m. time. The Bulldogs' 23- 3 record last season was one of the best in the nation. All— America candidate Mike Green, 1 6- 10 center who averaged 24 points a game last year, leads Tech's attack, but the Bulldogs lost three starters through graduation.

Grid Finals

For the second season in a row, Southeast Missouri has failed to place one of its high school football teams in the state football finals.

Jackson and Cape Girardeau Central, powers of the potent Northern Division, carried Bootheel hopes into semifinal matches last Saturday but were defeated by St. Louis area powers.

Jackson dropped a 24-0 game to Chaminade while the Central High unit lost a 27-19 decision Hazelwood, an early season victim of the Bengals.

Hazelwood and Southwest High of Kansas City battled for the 4A crown today in St. Louis, while St. Louis Chaminade traveled to Chillicothe for the 3A showdown.

St. Mary's of Independence visited St. Louis Country Day for the battle for the 2A trophy and Fairfax invaded Warrensburg for the 1A title.

Four new class champions were crowned in the 1971 Missouri State High School Activities Association football playoffs.

Rockhurst High School, the 1970 runner- up, won the 4A championship by defeating Springfield Hickman 21-0 in the semifinals and Beaumont 20-14 in the final for a season record of 11-0-0.

Richmond High won over Mountain Grove and Fulton (29-25) to claim the 3A title. Richmond finished the season with a 10-1 mark.

Monett earned its 2A championship with a 33-0 win over Smithville in the semifinals and turned back defending champion, South Shelby (37-8) in the final for a season record of 12-0-0.

Tarkio laid claim to the 1A title after a shot at the 1968 title. Tarkio returned to take the '71 crown with a 25-12 win over Lathrop and a 35-22 victory over Springfield Greenwood for a 10-0-0 mark.

Tigers Remain Unbeaten

CARUTHERSVILLE — Coach Hugh James' CHS Tigers remained unbeaten in five encounters this season, rallying for a 72-67 victory over the Hayti Indians Friday night.

It was a seesaw battle, typical of most between the arch- rivals, as Hayti grabbed a 16-14 first quarter lead to only see that margin dwindle with a 24-17 second- quarter Tiger advantage that left the hosts with a relatively comfortable 38-33 lead at halftime.

Hayti caught the Tigers cold again at the start of the second half to open their own five- point advantage, outscoring the Bengals 20-10. But the Indians couldn't maintain the pace as the hosts took advantage of 25 fouls to garner 20 points to post the win.

Joe Cagle, the sharpshooting Bengal guard, teamed with Robert Marshall for 48 points in leading the Caruthersville victory, scoring 24 points each. Oscar Cushionberry had 21 for the Tribe.

Caruthersville posted the win in the junior varsity, 47-37, behind Paul Palmer's 15 points. Ernest Campbell had 12 for the Indians.

Scoring:

CARUTHERSVILLE (72)

Cagle 24, G. Cunningham 8, R. Marshall 24, C. Cunningham 2, Yarbough 12, Dotson 2. TOTALS: FG-26; FT-20-31; PF-9.

HAYTI (67)

Campbell 4, Cushionberry 21, Gardner 6, Grant 16, Maxie 4, Smith 16. TOTALS; FG-31; FT-5-6; PF-25.

New Look At Mizzou

COLUMBIA, Mo.— Missouri will break in a new basketball arena and a newly designed team when it takes the floor of 12,600— seat Hearnes Multipurpose Building against Ohio University Saturday night at 8:05 p.m.

A capacity crowd is expected for the regular season inaugural of the $11 million structure. The starting time has been moved back to allow traffic from the Kansas— Missouri football game earlier in the day to be cleared out before the basketball traffic moves in.

Coach Norm Stewart plans to start 6- 7 All American candidate John Brown at center with 6- 5 junior Al Eberhard and 6- 5 sophomore Felix Jerman at the forwards. Mike Jeffries has moved from the front line to guard where he will form a senior combination with Orv Salmon. In addition, freshmen LaMont Turner (6- 7) and Kevin King (6— 0) may see plenty of action.

"Orv, Felix, Mike, LaMont and Kevin all are new to what they are doing," Stewart explained. "Mike is changing positions; Orv is in the leadership position and the others are playing varsity ball for the first time. It's going to take time and patience for all of them to adjust."

Injuries and sickness have been the major problems plaguing the Tigers' preseason preparations. Salmon has had the flu and may be replaced by King in the starting lineup. Reserve guard Jerry Stock still is not at full strength since a knee operation, and 6- 11 Gail Wolf just returned to practice after missing two weeks with a sprained ankle.

"Despite the injuries, we think we're going to be fairly close to where we'd like to be for the first game," Stewart said, "but it's been difficult to evaluate our personnel.

"We haven't really had time to work on Ohio University," Stewart said. "we know they're a sound team with good personnel which complements their running game. Coach Jim Snyder's teams always play well."

Last season the Bobcats played well enough to win the Mid- American conference championship. Three starters, 6- 6 Dave Ball, 6- 6 Tom Riccardi and 6- 8 Dennis Rusch, return from that team. However, 6- 6 sophomore George Green, who averaged 21.6 points a game as a freshman, may work into the starting unit.

Ohio is especially deep at guard with four players in a close battle for first team status. Big Bill Brown (6- 5) has been injured but may start with either transfer Allan Talbert or junior Denny Thompson.

Ohio's prized freshman, 6— 4 Walter Luckett, also will get plenty of playing time. Luckett averaged 39.8 points a game last year in high school and was the top scorer in the Bobcats' intrasquad game, but he has been slowed by preseason knee surgery.

Missouri has defeated Ohio the last two years, once in double overtime and by two points last season. The two should provide an exciting opening to the 1972-73 season.

Louisiana Tech comes to Columbia Tuesday for a game beginning at the usual 7:35 p.m. time. The Bulldogs' 23- 3 record last season was one of the best in the nation. All— America candidate Mike Green, 1 6- 10 center who averaged 24 points a game last year, leads Tech's attack, but the Bulldogs lost three starters through graduation.

Hazelwood and Southwest High of Kansas City battled for the 4A crown today in St. Louis, while St. Louis Chaminade traveled to Chillicothe for the 3A showdown.

St. Mary's of Independence visited St. Louis Country Day for the battle for the 2A trophy and Fairfax invaded Warrensburg for the 1A title.

Four new class champions were crowned in the 1971 Missouri State High School Activities Association football playoffs.

Rockhurst High School, the 1970 runner- up, won the 4A championship by defeating Springfield Hickman 21-0 in the semifinals and Beaumont 20-14 in the final for a season record of 11-0-0.

Richmond High won over Mountain Grove and Fulton (29-25) to claim the 3A title. Richmond finished the season with a 10-1 mark.

Monett earned its 2A championship with a 33-0 win over Smithville in the semifinals and turned back defending champion, South Shelby (37-8) in the final for a season record of 12-0-0.

Tarkio laid claim to the 1A title after a shot at the 1968 title. Tarkio returned to take the '71 crown with a 25-12 win over Lathrop and a 35-22 victory over Springfield Greenwood for a 10-0-0 mark.

Tigers Remain Unbeaten

CARUTHERSVILLE — Coach Hugh James' CHS Tigers remained unbeaten in five encounters this season, rallying for a 72-67 victory over the Hayti Indians Friday night.

It was a seesaw battle, typical of most between the arch- rivals, as Hayti grabbed a 16-14 first quarter lead to only see that margin dwindle with a 24-17 second- quarter Tiger advantage that left the hosts with a relatively comfortable 38-33 lead at halftime.

Hayti caught the Tigers cold again at the start of the second half to open their own five- point advantage, outscoring the Bengals 20-10. But the Indians couldn't maintain the pace as the hosts took advantage of 25 fouls to garner 20 points to post the win.

Joe Cagle, the sharpshooting Bengal guard, teamed with Robert Marshall for 48 points in leading the Caruthersville victory, scoring 24 points each. Oscar Cushionberry had 21 for the Tribe.

Caruthersville posted the win in the junior varsity, 47-37, behind Paul Palmer's 15 points. Ernest Campbell had 12 for the Indians.

Scoring:

CARUTHERSVILLE (72)

Cagle 24, G. Cunningham 8, R. Marshall 24, C. Cunningham 2, Yarbough 12, Dotson 2. TOTALS: FG-26; FT-20-31; PF-9.

HAYTI (67)

Campbell 4, Cushionberry 21, Gardner 6, Grant 16, Maxie 4, Smith 16. TOTALS; FG-31; FT-5-6; PF-25.

Score By Quarters:

Caruthersville	14	24	10	24	—72
Hayti	16	17	20	14	—67

THE ACTION WAY!

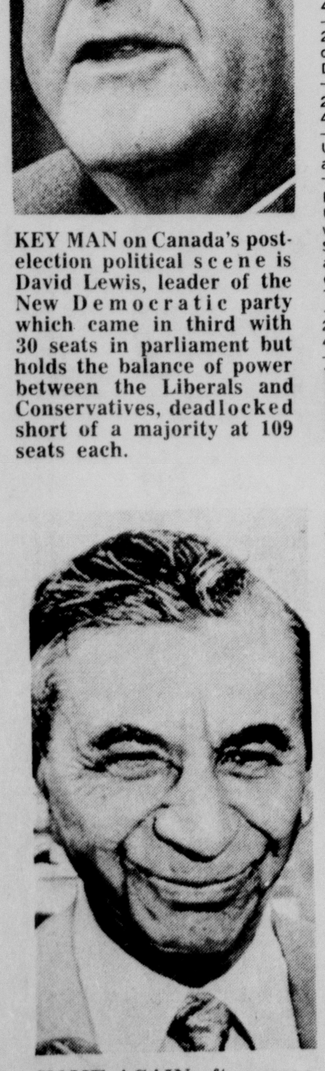

TO BE or not to be Democratic national chairman is the question that may be decided for incumbent Jean Westwood when the national committee meets in December to assess the post-election state of the party. She was Sen. George McGovern's choice for the post after he captured the presidential nomination.

GUARDIAN of the President's office door, H. R. Haldeman is one of the most powerful men in the White House. He decides who sees the President and has come under fire from some quarters for allegedly isolating his boss.

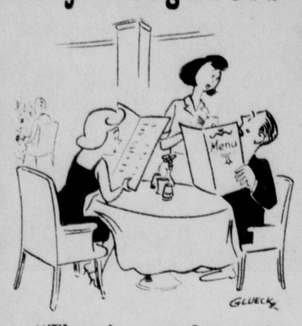

KEY MAN on Canada's post-election political scene is David Lewis, leader of the New Democratic party which came in third with 30 seats in parliament but holds the balance of power between the Liberals and Conservatives, deadlocked short of a majority at 109 seats each.

HOME AGAIN after years abroad, reputed crime boss Meyer Lansky ended up in Miami and FBI hands after a flight which began with deportation from Israel and continued through South American countries which refused to receive him.

WANT ADS THE ACTION WAY!

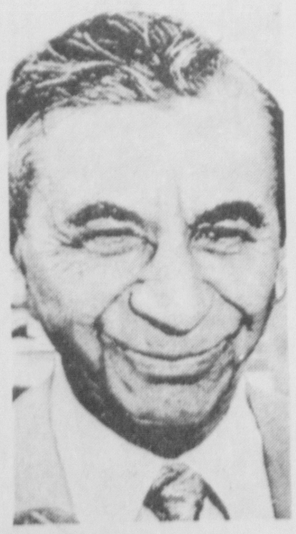

TO BE or not to be Democratic national chairman is the question that may be decided for incumbent Jean Westwood when the national committee meets in December to assess the post-election state of the party. She was Sen. George McGovern's choice for the post after he captured the presidential nomination.

GUARDIAN of the President's office door, H. R. Haldeman is one of the most powerful men in the White House. He decides who sees the President and has come under fire from some quarters for allegedly isolating his boss.

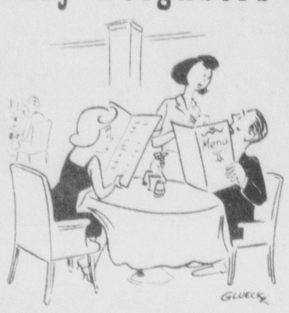

KEY MAN on Canada's post-election political scene is David Lewis, leader of the New Democratic party which came in third with 30 seats in parliament but holds the balance of power between the Liberals and Conservatives, deadlocked short of a majority at 109 seats each.

HOME AGAIN after years abroad, reputed crime boss Meyer Lansky ended up in Miami and FBI hands after a flight which began with deportation from Israel and continued through South American countries which refused to receive him.
